Outstanding Senior

Elsi Rodriguez is the spring 2000 Outstanding Senior, an award presented each semester by the Alumni Association board of directors to recognize achievements in the academic, social and cultural affairs of the university. Elsi is now working on a master's degree at Purdue University as one of ten students nationwide chosen by Sandia National Labs to complete a master's degree in one year then work for Sandia.

King-O'Neal Awards

The Alumni Association presented 18 graduates with King-O'Neal Awards during the May 2000 commencement.

A winning combination

The USF Alumni Association presented its annual awards to three individuals who have distinguished themselves in their professional and civic lives and given back to the university.

Richard Brown '67 was named winner of the 2000 Distinguished Alumnus Award. An accountant, Brown has been involved in the USF Alumni Association and USF Foundation since 1985. He has served in numerous key positions, including president for each group.

Liana Fox '80, a math educator in Hillsborough County, received the 2000 Donald A. Gifford Alumni Service Award, which was renamed in memory of one of USF's closest friends who died last year. Fox is involved with many Tampa Bay organizations, from the League of Women Voters to the Greater Tampa Urban League. She has also been president of the USF Alumni Association, a member of the USF Foundation Board and served on several USF presidential search committees. She was named Tampa Hispanic Heritage Woman of the Year in 1993 and 1997.

Rep. C.W. "Bill" Young received the 2000 Class of 1956 Award, which honors friends of USF. Young has served in Congress more than 30 years and has been a major force in funding USF research initiatives, from H. Lee Moffitt Cancer Center & Research Institute to the College of Marine Science in St. Petersburg. He also helped secure funding USF's Center for Biological Defense and Center for Defense Preparedness and Humanitarian Assistance.

The King-O'Neal Award is given each semester to the graduating senior with the highest cumulative grade point average during his or her college career at USF. It is named for the university's first two graduates, Lucas King and Evelyn O'Neal.

The May 2000 award winners are: Jennifer Rebecca S. Ascher, Tonya DeAnn
