USF HISTORIAN WINS SOUTHERN HISTORY PRIZE

Raymond Arsenault, an American history professor at the University of South Florida at St. Petersburg, has been awarded the 1986 Fletcher Green-Charles Ramsdell Prize, one of two major biennial prizes given by the Southern Historical Association. The award was announced on Thursday, November 13 at the 52nd annual meeting of the association, which was held in Charlotte, North Carolina.

Arsenault was honored for his groundbreaking research and writing on the impact of air conditioning on Southern history and culture. His book, The Wild Ass of the Ozarks: Jeff Davis and the Social Bases of Southern Politics, was awarded the Ledbetter Prize by the University of Arkansas' Center for Arkansas Studies.

The Southern Historical Association's other major award, the Charles Sydnor Prize, was given to Pete Daniel of the Smithsonian Institution's Museum of American History for his recently-published study of modern Southern agriculture, Breaking the Land: The Transformation of Cotton, Tobacco, and Rice Cultures since 1880.
