ON CAMPUS SEMINAR:

WILLIAM RUCHELSHAUS

William Ruchelshaus, the prolific Deputy Attorney General who was fired by President Nixon for his refusal to dismiss Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox, will conduct a seminar this Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The special seminar, open only to USF persons, will be held in the North Lounge of the B-Building.

Ruchelshaus became acting Attorney General after Attorney General Elliot Richardson refused Nixon's order to fire Cox two weeks ago. Ruchelshaus was of counsel to Cox, and dictated his letter of resignation, but before the White House could acknowledge it, he was dismissed. Then Solicitor General Robert Bork became acting Attorney General and in turn, complied with the President's order and ousted Cox and dismissed his 90-person staff.

The career of Ruchelshaus was been spectacular since graduating from the Harvard Law School in 1960. He served five years in the Indiana Attorney General's Office, and then was elected majority leader of the State House of Representatives. In 1969, he joined the Justice Department as assistant Attorney General in charge of the Civil Division, and became the unofficial spokesman to and for young people. During the 1970 antiwar demonstration in Washington, Ruchelshaus negotiated the touchy logistics problems with the rally's leaders, and he helped calm a near confrontation during a Black Panther trial in 1971.

Since joining the Justice Department, Ruchelshaus has made several campus speaking appearances to improve the Administration's weakening image.

Ruchelshaus was the first Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), and is known for his tough policy on antipollution devices on automobiles. However, he granted the auto manufacturers a one-year extension, until 1975, to comply with the antipollution standards.

Last April, Ruchelshaus was a popular figure in Washington, known for his ability to maintain a fairly non-partisan tone.

THE ST. PETERSBURG COMMUNITY CONCERT ASSOCIATION

The St. Petersburg Concert Association will present three all-star performances this year at Bayfront Center, and students can buy tickets at the low, low subsidy rate—for as low as $6 for the total package without subsidy, or—ready?—ONE DOLLAR with subsidy.

Richard Tucker, the world's greatest tenor who has had more leading roles at the Metropolitan Opera Association than any other living singer, leads off the first concert of the three-part package. His concert is scheduled for Friday, Feb. 23.

The second concert will feature virtuoso pianist Lorin Hollander, one of the most exciting pianists of his generation. Hollander, incidentally, can be seen on NET-TV this season. He will play in 10 recitals.

The third concert features the Joffrey II Ballet Company, which is the result of the reorganization of the Joffrey Ballet. The original Joffrey Ballet troupe had an apprentice program which now composes the Joffrey II company. This small company is more versatile than the parent group, and can therefore perform in more concerts. The concert will feature a wide range of dance—from the most classical to the most modern interpretative dance.

Admission to the concerts is by membership card only which costs $6 for students, faculty and staff. Regular price is $16. Full fee-paying students may purchase the season ticket for as low as $1 with subsidy.

Sorry—no individual tickets are sold. Should you be unable to attend one of the concerts, you can loan your card to another person.

In 1242, Russia was invaded by the powerful Order of the Teutonic Knights, who, as crusaders, swept across the Baltic provinces. From these events, Director Eisenstein fashioned his epic film, widely recognized as an all-time classic. Prokofiev composed the musical score for this 1938 film.

GARDNER BECKETT ON WATERGATE

Gardner Beckett is a small, quiet man with dark brown glasses, greying hair and a face full of soft features. But his message is a far cry from quiet.

Before a hushed crowd of 20 students and faculty last Wednesday afternoon, Beckett spoke about the Watergate with his exact, forceful precision that he has mastered as a result of many years as an American Civil Liberties Union lawyer. The speech culminated the ACLU membership drive week on the Bay Campus.

Beckett's topic was "Is Watergate a new McCarthyism? and he drove his points home with occasional sarcasm and amusing anecdotes.

"There were three parts to McCarthyism," he said, "First, there's always a super-patriot involved. Second, there must be an opposition party—an 'unpatriotic' party. In McCarthy's case, the opposition is regarded not only as wrong, but as unpatriotic. And third, there is a so-called fear of foreign influence. The Watergate seems to have the same three elements," he continued. "First, there were the super-patriots—it was as if somebody said the country had to be saved for Nixon, or is it the other way around? This was an unpatriotic group—their membership drive week is going to undermine the party. McGovern was going to give everybody a thousand dollars. And third, there was fear. There was serious thought that the principle contributor and supporter of the McGovern campaign was Fidel Castro. Or so they wanted you to believe that.

"Duri ng the vigorous question-answer period, Beckett spoke of the 'so-called (St. Petersburg) race riot of 1968.' He said the police were arresting people for disturbing the peace and setting ball at $5,000, "clearly denying them of their civil liberties."

"This is my point: The founding fathers probably had foreseen a problem like this, and would agree that better an occasional small riot, or some loudmouth telling you why he doesn't like you, than a situation where we are forced to keep the lid on such problems until they blow up."
