FROM THE CAMPUS LIBRARY: Meet Samuel Fustukjian

USF-St. Pete welcomed this summer a new Director of Library Services, Samuel Fustukjian. Mr. Fustukjian (Sam) comes to USF from the State University of New York (Oswego) where he was Head of Information Services. His arrival at USF coincides with the dawn of expansion for USF-St. Pete. In December the library will be moving into a new building located west of the present campus.

Mr. Fustukjian attended private Armenian schools in his native Beirut, Lebanon. After receiving a BA in English from Hacigian College, he did graduate work at the American University of Beirut. Subsequently, he came to Syracuse University to study library science and later to SUNY (Oswego). His background includes a wide range of professional and academic activities in both Lebanon and the U.S.

Sam admits that settling in Florida has created some cultural shock for him. He is learning to accept the slower pace and has developed a respect for the coffee break, although still maintaining it is a sign of social degeneracy (he himself never takes breaks)!

Generally, Sam has found Florida a positive experience. USF-St. Pete has provided him his first opportunity to direct a library. In addition, he and his wife Cynthia believe the unconstrained atmosphere of the Bay area will be a good place to begin their family. The Fustukjians are expecting their first baby in February. The Florida climate also influenced the new librarian's decision to settle in St. Pete. He appreciates the chance to frequently participate in some of his favorite outdoor activities (swimming, tennis, and water volleyball). Sam confesses that having come to St. Pete in January helped persuade him that Florida, not New York, was a good place to settle.

Although staff and resources at the Bay Campus Library are considerably smaller than those at his previous position, Sam sees the possibilities here as many. Impressed with the USF-St. Pete faculty and Administration, he has found the university and city community receptive. Additional plans include involving the local community in what will become a mutually beneficial interaction. Although admitting problems, Sam Fustukjian is maintaining a tempered optimism for the future of the USF-St. Pete Library.

3. CAPTAIN ARAB
4. CAPTAIN MARLOW
5. CAPTAIN VAN STRAATEN
6. CAPTAIN QUEEG
7. CAPTAIN NEMO
8. CAPTAIN ENGLEHORN
9. CAPTAIN HERR THIELE
10. CAPTAIN HOWDY

A. Character in and narrator of Joseph Conrad's Lord Jim, Youth, Heart of Darkness
B. Captain of the Vera (Katharine Anne Porter's Ship of Fools)
C. Captain of U.S.S. Caine (Herman Wouk's The Caine Mutiny); played by Humphrey Bogart in the 1954 movie
D. Captain of the ship Venture which brought King Kong to New York
E. Pirate captain of the Walrus who buries the treasure on Treasure Island. His first mate was Billy Bones; his quartermaster was Long John Silver (in Robert L. Stevenson's Treasure Island)
F. Regan's imaginary playmate, who is actually the evil demon that possesses her (The Exorcist)
G. Captain of the ship The Flying Dutchman, condemned to wander forever on the oceans of the world
H. Captain of the submarine Nautilus (Jules Verne's Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea)
I. Bad guy in McDonald Land (McDonald's Hamburger's commercials)
J. Captain of the Pequod (Herman Melville's Moby Dick)

You've probably noticed an earlier-than-usual Christmas-like atmosphere around the campus in recent days: students humming Christmas songs on their way to class; clerks typing Merrily to the cadence of "Deck the Halls" (or, for the slower typist, "Silent Night"); Marine Science students and faculty singing and whistling rounds of "Christmas is Coming" by the water fountain; the normally pleasant young administrator responding to your cheery greeting with a growled "Bah! Humbug!"

These festive activities are motivated not so much by the imminence of Christmas (it's only October!) as by the fact that the USF ST. PETERS SINGERS are at it again: preparing for the annual Christmas tour of Bay area nursing and convalescent homes and retirement centers. They're busy scripts, building props, designing costumes and rehearsing a repertoire of Christmas songs, old and new, to the accompaniment of piano, flutes, guitars and bells.

This year's program, "Christmas at the North Pole," features Ebenezer Elf, who thinks toy-making is a lot of nonsense; Radar Elf, whose anticipation of Santa's somewhat confused and bungled instructions just might ensure that the toys will be ready by Christmas Eve; Patrick Elf, whose homesickness for the Emerald Isle produces some curious results; and Lothario and Gomer Elf, whose antics interfere with everybody's work.

Supported by more than two dozen students, faculty and staff, these elfin performers will create a Christmas show guaranteed to

Moshe Dayan to Speak at USF-Jampa
from USF Information Services

Moshe Dayan, former Israeli minister of foreign affairs and current member of the Israeli legislative body, the Knesset, will speak at the University of South Florida gym on Nov. 12 at 8 PM. Dayan will address "Middle East Perspectives."

Some 2,000 tickets are expected to be available in advance starting Nov. 3 at the University Center Information Desk. Tickets are $3 for the public, free to USF students with validated I.D.'s. If any tickets remain on Nov. 12, they will be available at the door. For information, call 974-2635 (Tampa).

Dayan was first elected to the Knesset and appointed minister of agriculture in 1959. He resigned from the agricultural position in 1964 and was appointed minister of defense, playing a crucial role in Israel's third war with the Arab states.

He helped to build what has been described as an effective foundation for developing Arab-Israeli relations - "the open bridges policy" - shortly after the 1967 war.

Dayan's lecture will be sponsored by the University Lecture Series and the USF Hillel Foundation.
