Introduction to the Collection

Many of the images in this collection once appeared in the “Negro” news section of the St. Petersburg Times. At some point in time, they were acquired by the Neighborhood News Bureau, a partnership of USFSP and other entities that documents events in and shares news of Midtown, an area of southern St. Petersburg with a substantial African American population. In January 2014, Dr. Deni Elliott, Chair of Journalism and Media Studies at USFSP and the Eleanor Poynter Jamison Chair of Media Ethics and Press Policy, transferred this collection from the Neighborhood News Bureau offices to the Poynter Library to ensure the long-term preservation of the photographs.

Preservation Note

The materials in this collection occupy one acid-free document box. While preservation measures may slow the physical deterioration of photographic prints, these steps cannot prevent damage from occurring. To prevent further damage to the fragile materials in this collection, avoid exposing them to light for an extended period of time. Please report any tears or other damage so that library staff may take appropriate preservation or conservation measures. Protective gloves should be worn when handling all photographs and other fragile materials. While no restrictions limit access to this collection, library staff will evaluate photocopying or digitization requests on an individual basis to ensure the long-term preservation of this unique collection and compliance with copyright. Patrons using this collection must adhere to copyright and fair-use guidelines and provide proper citation of sources appearing in their research.

Provenance of the Neighborhood News Photographic Collection

This collection falls under the Local and Regional History provenance of the Special Collections and University Archives department, Nelson Poynter Memorial Library, USF St. Petersburg.

Scope and Contents

The contents occupy one document box (0.10 ln. ft.). The bulk of the sixty-four images covers the period from the late 1940s through the early 1950s. The collection includes photographs that appeared in the “Negro” news pages once published by the Times Publishing Company, a St. Petersburg corporation that owned the St. Petersburg Times during the period when many of these images were created. The St. Petersburg Times has since been renamed the Tampa Bay Times.

Related Collections

The Weekly Challenger Photographic Collection, also located at the Poynter Library, includes images that document African American heritage and events in St. Petersburg and the Tampa Bay region. Please contact Special Collections and University Archives for more information regarding this collection.
