John Wiley & Sons has recently published Introduction and Guide to the Marine Bluegreen Algae by Harold J. Humm and Susanne R. Wicks. The book provides an up-to-date, condensed introduction to all aspects of bluegreen algae and the means for identification of all marine bluegreen algae.

Harold J. Humm is a Professor of Marine Science at the University of South Florida. He received a B.S. and an M.A. in Botany from the University of Miami and a Ph.D. in Botany from Duke University. He is the author of The Marine Algae of Virginia and the editor, with C.E. Lane, of Bioactive Compounds from the Sea.

Susanne R. Wicks is a Research Associate at Southern Illinois University. She holds a B.S. in Bacteriology Mathematics from McKendree College, Lebanon, Illinois, and an M.S. in Biology from Washington University, St. Louis. She received the Outstanding Teacher Award from Southern Illinois University in 1971.

Founded in 1807, John Wiley & Sons is one of America’s oldest publishing houses. It is eminent in science and technology, social science, business and medicine.

CONGRATULATIONS, DR. HUMM!

The Youthsgrants program of the National Endowment for the Humanities will offer over 100 cash awards across the nation this fall to young people in their teens and early twenties, including many college and university students, to pursue non-credit, out-of-the-classroom projects in the humanities. The deadline for submission of completed applications is November 15, 1980.

The grants, which offer up to $2,500 to individuals and up to $10,000 for groups ($15,000 for certain high-cost media projects) are intended primarily for those between the ages of 15 to 25 who have a ways to go before completing academic or professional training. While the program cannot provide scholarship support or financial aid for degree-related work, it is the only federal program which awards money directly to young people for independent work in the humanities. The humanities include such subject areas as history, ethnic studies, folklore, anthropology, linguistics, and the history of art.

If you are interested in the program, a copy of the guidelines may be obtained by writing before October 15, 1980 to:

ALL-TIME RECORD HIGH ENROLLMENT PROJECTED

The highest enrollment in its 25-year history has been recorded at the University of South Florida this fall, based on preliminary headcount estimates released this week by USF's Office of Institutional Research.

An estimated 24,400 students are taking classes at USF's four campuses. This compares to the previous high enrollment of 23,581 in fall 1979.

Enrollment appears to be up on the Tampa, St. Petersburg and Fort Myers campuses, though Sarasota has enrolled a few less students this fall.

Until final headcounts are computed at a later date, USF officials do not have an exact headcount nor are they speculating on why the enrollment has increased by nearly 1,000.

Although an official breakdown from the Office of Institutional Research is not yet available, reports from the regional campuses indicate that about 4,126 students are enrolled at St. Petersburg, Sarasota and Fort Myers collectively. This suggests that about 20,574 students are enrolled on the Tampa Campus or in continuing education courses in off-campus locations in the 15 counties served by USF. This headcount compares to a final figure of 20,259 in fall 1979.

St. Petersburg also reports a record high of 2,107 as compared to 1,909 last fall and 2,014, the record high from winter term 1975.

At Fort Myers, where ground was broken for new campus facilities just last week, nearly 200 more students are enrolled this fall than last—a total of 674 students. This includes 356 graduate students and 318 undergraduate students. This compares to a final headcount of 494 last fall and the all-time high of 584 in winter term 1979.

Sarasota has a total of 1,345 students, as compared to last fall’s previous high of 1,370. This includes 449 students enrolled in the New College of USF honors program and 896 students taking USF upper-level courses.

HEALTH FAIR
"Getting to Know Your Community Health Services"

The Nursing Student Association at USF St. Petersburg is sponsoring a Health Fair on Wednesday, October 8, from Noon - 6 PM and Thursday, October 9, from 9 AM - 3 PM. The program is called "Getting to Know Your Community Health Services."

Many community health organizations will be participating, including Bayfront Medical Center, Apollo Medical Center, American Red Cross, Children’s Medical Services, Juvenile Welfare Board, Gulf Coast Lung Association, Palms of Pasadera Hospital, American Heart Association, Cancer Society and many more.

Free blood pressure screening will be done by members of the Nursing Student Association and by volunteers from the Nurses Official Registry. The Community Blood Bank will have a representative conducting free ABO blood typing.

Many interesting displays featuring health services available in the community will also enhance the Fair.

The Fair is free and open to the public as well as to the campus community. The program will be held in the North Lounge of Building B.

FLYING CLUB presents
SAFE PILOT '80

Since 1972, the FAA has conducted a vigorous campaign to make recurrent training in safe flying procedures and techniques available to every pilot in the nation.

Safe Pilot '80, an activity of the General Aviation Manufacturers Association, is a program created to give FAA Accident Prevention Seminars and Clinics the pilot participation they deserve.

The program is to be carried out all during the calendar year 1980 and is planned to enlist more seminar sponsors, produce more seminars and serve more pilots than ever before in the history of the general aviation industry.

It is an ambitious program but an attainable one.

Several major incentives are being supplied by GAMA and its member companies to secure seminar sponsors and participants. These include a sweepstakes for pilot participants who will be given an opportunity to register to win a $50,000 AIRPLANE! Additionally, pilot participants will have an opportunity to win one of two hundred and sixty four FLIGHT PROFICIENCY SCHOLARSHIPS to be awarded at the rate of twenty-two per month (two in each of eleven FAA regions). The scholarships are redeemable for $100 in dual flight instruction.

Sponsors will be eligible to win $5,000.00 in gold (or cash) in their own sweepstakes.

Intensive national and regional publicity and promotional programs will be used to encourage pilot participation.

Safe Pilot '80 is an important milestone in a long history of government/industry cooperation. In the interest of safer skies, it needs and deserves your support.
