Two USF Students Receive Scholarships
By Jim Schnur
Chairperson, Lecture Series

Two USF St. Petersburg students have received scholarships from the Pinellas County Historical Society. The Society honored Chris Sterner and Tony Smith at its 15th annual banquet, held on Friday, January 24, at the Carouel Yacht Club in Clearwater Beach. Sterner and Smith each received $1,000 from the Society.

Sterner entered the master's degree program in history in 1990. He previously graduated from St. Petersburg Junior College and Eckerd College. Sterner enjoys researching the early history of Pinellas County, and recently wrote a seminar paper that examined the perceived threat of Communism to the Tampa Bay area during the Cold War period. Sterner plans to teach in a junior college upon completing his degree at USF.

Smith will complete his undergraduate degree in history this semester. In addition to his academic courses, Smith also participates as a student member of the USF St. Petersburg Lecture Series and works as a student assistant in the Nelson Poynter Memorial Library. He intends to enter USF's School of Library and Information Science this summer, and hopes to

Lecture Series on Ethics

By Deborah Kurelik
Media Relations Staff

A 12-week lecture series on ethics is hosted by the University of South Florida's St. Petersburg campus on Monday evenings during Semester II. National and local experts will discuss the theoretical and practical aspects of a range of ethical issues each Monday night through April 20. All sessions will be held in the Campus Activities Center from 6:30 - 8 pm.

The series, titled "Critical Choices: Ethics in a Complex Society," is free and open to the public.

Programs will deal with ethics and the professions, including business, media, law, medicine and politics. The ethics of race and gender, and religion and values also will be covered. Some featured speakers include Andrew M. Greeley, a Catholic priest and best-selling novelist; author and media critic Neil Postman; and Emmy award-winning reporter Paula Lyons of Good Morning, America.

"The program is designed to encourage thinking about the issues and ethical criteria for decision-making," said Mike Killenberg, a USF professor of mass communications and co-chairman of the lecture series. Nancy McIntosh, academic program coordinator for the College of Business, also co-chairs the committee.

The series is sponsored by USF's Colleges of Business and Arts and Sciences, and is part of the university's "Year of Discovery," a year full of events based on themes of intellect, faith and the future. The series is primarily funded by the Wal-ly Bishop Program for Ethical Leadership Studies at USF St. Petersburg. Call 893-9160 for more information about the program.

Phi Theta Kappa Wins Award

By Stefanie Tomes
PTK Secretary

The fall of 1991 semester was a successful one for Phi Theta Kappa (Kappa). One of the benefits to the chapter was receiving the "most improved chapter" award received at the Florida State PTK convention.

The award was given to Kappa for its efforts to increase membership, become more involved in campus and community activities, and re-organize the previously non-active chapter.

Kappa members will represent USF at the National Convention in Washington DC this spring.

become an archivist or special collections librarian.

Other USF St. Pete students have won the Pinellas County Historical Society scholarship in previous years. Past winners include Glenda Alvin, Christian Warren, Jack Davis, David McCall and Jim Schnur. Warren and McCally recently left USF St. Pete to pursue advanced graduate study. Warren, a student in the Master of Liberal Arts program, obtained a full fellowship to complete a Ph.D. at Brandeis University in Massachusetts. Davis also attends Brandeis. McCally was awarded two prestigious fellowships from the University of Florida and has entered that school's Ph.D. program in American history.

Student Government in Action

By Steve Bearden
SG Treasurer

Federal deficits, recession, budget cuts... we all have heard of these terms and know their implications. But how do they affect St. Pete campus students?

Ask me, I'm Steve Bearden, your Student Government (SG) Treasurer. I am responsible for doing more with less.

I obtained first-hand knowledge of the severity of the budget cuts while serving on the SG Budget Committee last semester.

This committee saw the trends and wisely decided to revise the clubs and organizations budget process.

The purpose was to encourage and support the organizations that were most effectively and efficiently using their resources.

In order to insure fairness and objectivity, we allowed each organization equal time to tell us what was important to them and how they used their resources.

The committee, in turn, told each group the standard criteria it was looking for and reviewed each item's relative importance. Some organizations took advantage of this opportunity, others did not.

This semester, SG has extended this theme into our strategic plans. We feel it is the proper course of action, given the external and internal constraints placed upon our budget and this campus.

Our goals are not new, aggressive projects, but instead are projects that examine certain areas under our supervision. We aim to bring about changes in efficiency and effectiveness.

We are also looking to streamline SG's administrative processes. I am of the opinion that is is better to make minor, painful cuts in the budget now, then ex-cruciatingly painful cuts later.

As always, SG is seeking students who are dedicated to making a difference. I encourage you to help me, and the rest of SG, to shape the St. Petersburg campus in a direct way.

I think you will find SG as rewarding as I do. If you're interested, please contact me, or any representative at the Student Government office in the CAC.
