7-14-1975

Crow's Nest : 1975 : 07 : 14

University of South Florida St. Petersburg.

Follow this and additional works at: https://digital.usfsp.edu/crows_nest

Recommended Citation
https://digital.usfsp.edu/crows_nest/231
VICTIMLESS CRIME SEMINAR

GAMBLING
Panel I - Saturday, July 19
9:30 a.m. - 11:30 a.m.

Panelists:
Professor John Iorio: Department of English, University of South Florida; co-editor, The Literature of Violence
Jay Kashuk: Executive Director, Floridians for State Control of Casinos
Professor Herbert Kimmel: Department of Psychology, University of South Florida; author, Experimental Psychopathology
Denis J. Quilligan: Chief Investigator, Pinellas-Pasco State Attorney's office

PROSTITUTION
Panel III - Saturday, July 19
4:00 p.m. - 6:00 p.m.

Panelists:
Lt. John Brannigan: Vice Squad, City of Tampa Police Department
Professor Lee De Cesare: Department of English, Hillsborough Community College; member, NOW and WEAL
Roy O'Bryan: Parole and Probation Supervisor, State of Florida, District of Tampa
Professor Amy Sparks-Davis: Department of Humanities, University of South Florida

Panel II - Saturday, July 19
1:00 p.m. - 3:00 p.m.

Panelists:
The Honorable Richard Hodes: Florida House of Representatives, physician
Msgr. John P. McNulty: Director, Respect for Life Diocesan Program; Pastor, St. Mary's Church, St. Petersburg
Professor Charles Obrenner: American Idea Program, University of South Florida (emeritus); author, Body, Soul, and Society
Professor Judith Ochshorn: Women's Studies Program, University of South Florida

Coffee Hour 3:00-4:00 p.m. (Auditorium Lobby)

University of South Florida
St. Petersburg Campus
July 19

Auditorium

FREE OPEN-TO-PUBLIC

TICKETS CURRENTLY ON SALE
FRIDAY, JULY 25

Tickets as low as $1.00 to students using their subsidy

CONTACT THE ACTIVITIES OFFICE

---

CROW'S NEST

GOOD GUY OF THE WEEK: ROGER JOHANSON
Marine Science
Thanks for helping us with the sailboats!

FREDDIE FELLINI'S

8 1/2

JULY 19

University of South Florida
St. Petersburg Campus
July 14, 1975

Vol. 6, No. 19

STUDENT NEWS

FRIDAY EVENING FILM SERIES

THE VERSION TV DIDN'T DARE SHOW

"Psycho", Alfred Hitchcock's study in suspense is a high voltage shocker, containing the culmination of this great director's skill in taking the macabre and serving it up in large doses. A Victorian style house in the eerie setting in which Janet Leigh steals a large sum of money from her employer and sets off the chain of circumstances that leads Anthony Perkins, as a young man too long under the domination of his overbearing mother, down the path of drama, suspense and terror. You'll never forget the blood-curdling shower bath sequence engineered by the master director, Alfred Hitchcock. This bizarre story is adapted from an Inner Sanctum mystery novel. - 92 MINUTES

Starring ANTHONY PERKINS, JANET LEIGH

Probably Rated: PG Black-and-White

 CONTACT THE ACTIVITIES OFFICE **
Rain is the most important liquid in the world. Man's very life depends upon it. It is natural, therefore, that since the beginning of time the subject of rain—why it comes or doesn't come, how to make it come or how to stop it—has been surrounded by hundreds of theories, ranging from the deeply religious to the darkly superstitious.

One of the greatest rain makers of all time was St. Swithin, the ninth century English bishop, who, according to one of our most popular legends, sent a six-weeks downpour to thwart an attempt to move his bones one hundred years after his death. The superstition still persists, both in England and other parts of the English-speaking world, that

"On Swithin's Day, if it should rain, For forty days it will remain."

There is nothing to support this idea, except that it usually rains a good deal at this time of year in most parts of the Northern hemisphere.

Here is the story behind this superstition. Swithin, Bishop of Winchester, England, in the middle of the ninth century, was a man of unusual humility, even for a saint. Before he died he gave instructions that he was to be buried not in the Cathedral, as bishops were, but in the churchyard like anyone else. And so it was done.

CONTINUED ON NEXT PAGE

But after one hundred years had gone by, people decided that it was not right to have so great a man buried anywhere except under the altar, and arrangements were made to move the bones, the date being set for July 15th. When the solemn procession started out for the ceremony, there came a storm of such intensity that the project had to be postponed. By the time the storm had gone on for forty days the authorities began to get the idea: Swithin didn't want to be moved. So they called off the move and the rain stopped and the sun came out. The only trouble with this story is that it is not true. Swithin was moved, without incident, on July 15, 971.

There is another story about Swithin and a struggle he and another saint had over a poor sick man they were both trying to heal. The only point of this story is that it shows how people attribute to the saints the childish emotions they feel themselves. For centuries St. Swithin was the most popular healer in England. There were constant pilgrimages to his shrine, and statues, canes, and sometimes shoes were left there by those who were healed. This legend says that a group of friends brought a sick man on what seemed to be his deathbed, but they brought him with the intention of invocation a different saint. They were persuaded, however, to try St. Swithin. As they kept their vigil through the night, finally none of them could stay awake any longer. The sick man dreamed that he was being tugged about and that someone had managed to get one of his shoes off. In the morning when he awoke the man was healed, but the shoe actually was gone and has not been found to this day.

The question still stands: What saint stole the shoe? Obviously, Swithin and his rival saint, jealous and petulant, were pulling and hauling for possession of the sick man during the night, but no one knows which one had hold of his feet.

PRE-REGISTRATION: July 28-Aug. 1 ADMISSIONS
VICTIMLESS CRIME SEMINAR

GAMBLING

Panel I - Saturday, July 19
9:30 a.m. - 11:30 a.m.
Panelists:
Professor John Iorio: Department of English, University of South Florida; co-editor, The Literature of Violence
Jay Kashuk: Executive Director, Floridians for State Control of Casinos
Professor Herbert Kimmel: Department of Psychology, University of South Florida; author, Experimental Psychopathology
Denis Quilligan: Chief Investigator, State Attorney's office

Right to One's Body (Suicide, Euthanasia)

Panel II - Saturday, July 19
1:00 p.m. - 3:00 p.m.
Panelists:
The Honorable Richard Hodes: Florida House of Representatives, physician
Msgr. John P. McNulty: Director, Respect for Life Diocesan Program
Pastor, St. Mary's Church, St. Petersburg
Professor Charles Obermeyer: American Idea Program, University of South Florida (emeritus); author, Body, Soul, and Society
Professor Judith Ochshorn: Women's Studies Program, University of South Florida

Coffee Hour 3:00-4:00 p.m. (Auditorium Lobby)

PROSTITUTION

Panel III - Saturday, July 19
Panelists - Saturday, July 19
Lt. John Brannigan: Vice Squad, City of Tampa Police Department
Professor Lee De Cesare: Department of English, Hillsborough Community College; member, NOW and WEAL
Roy O'Bryan: Parole and Probation Supervisor, State of Florida, District of Tampa
Professor Amy Sparks-Davis: Department of Humanities, University of South Florida

University of South Florida St Petersburg Campus July 19 Auditorium
FREE OPEN TO PUBLIC

COUNTRY DINNER PLAYHOUSE
TICKETS CURRENTLY ON SALE. FRIDAY, JULY 25
Tickets as low as $1.00 to students using their subsidy
CONTACT THE ACTIVITIES OFFICE

University of South Florida
St. Petersburg Campus
July 14, 1975
Vol. 6 No. 19

GOOD GUY OF THE WEEK: ROGER JOHANSON Marine Science
Thanks for helping us with the sailboats!

SWIMMING POOL HOURS: NOON - 7 PM DAILY PLEASE BRING ID

FREDERICO FELLINI'S 8 1/2
JULY 25
Marcello Mastoianii
Anouk Aimée
Claudia Cardinale
Directed/Screenplay by Fellini
JULY 18 8PM
"Psycho", Alfred Hitchcock's study in suspense is a high voltage shocker, containing the culmination of this great director's skill in king the macabre and serving it up in large doses. A Victorian style house is the eerie setting in which Janet Leigh steals a large sum of money from her employer and sets off the chain of circumstances that leads Anthony Perkins, as a young man too long under the domination of his overbearing mother, down the path of drama, suspense and terror. You'll never forget the blood-curdling tower bath sequence engineered by the master director Alfred Hitchcock. This bizarre story is adapted from an Inner Sanctum mystery novel. - 92 MINUTES
Starring ANTHONY PERKINS, JANET LEIGH
Probably Rated: PG Black-and-White, July 25

SUMMER TENNIS TOURNAMENT SIGN UP IN ACTIVITIES OFFICE
Page Three

CALENDAR OF EVENTS, JULY 14-JULY 22

Monday, July 14 NATIONAL HOLIDAY IN FRANCE, ANNIVERSARY OF THE DESTRUCTION OF THE BASTILLE IN 1789.

Tuesday, July 15 happy birthday, Phyllis LeGronae CASHIER

ST. SWITHIN S DAY
Rain is the most important liquid in the world. Man's very life depends upon it. It is natural, therefore, that since the beginning of time the subject of rain—why it comes and why it doesn't come, how to make it come or how to stop it has been surrounded by hundreds of theories ranging from the deeply religious to the darkly superstitious.

One of the greatest rain makers of all time was St. Swithin, twentieth century English bishop who according to one of our most popular legends, sent a six-weeks downpour to thwart an attempt to move his bones over hundred years after his death. The superstition still persists, both in England and other parts of the English-speaking world that "On Switching Day, if it should rain, For forty days it will remain."

There is nothing to support this idea, except that it rains a good deal at this time of year in most parts of the Northern Hemisphere.

Here is the story behind this superstition. Switching, bishop of Winchester, England, in the middle of the ninth century, was a man of unusual humility even for a saint. Before he died he gave instructions that he was to buried not in the Cathedral, as bishops were, but in the churchyard like anyone else. And so it was done.

CONTINUED ON NEXT Page

But after one hundred years had gone by, people decided that it was not right to have so great a man buried anywhere except under the altar, and arrangements were made to move the bones, the date being set for July 15th. When the solemn procession started out for the ceremony, there came a storm of such intensity that the project had to be postponed. By the time the storm had gone on for forty days the authorities began to get the idea: Swithin didn't want to be moved. So they called off the move and the rain stopped and the sun came out. The only trouble with this story is that it is not true. Swithin was moved, without incident, on July 15, 971.

There is another story about Swithin and a struggle he and another saint had over a poor sick man they were trying to heal. The only point of this story is that it shows how people attribute to the saints the childish was the most popular healer in England. There were constant pilgrimages to his shrine, and crutches, canes, and sometimes shoes were left there by those who were healed. This legend says that a group of friends brought a sick man on what seemed to be his death bed, but they brought him with the intention of invoking a different saint. They were persuaded, however, to try St. Swithin.

As they kept their vigil through the night, finally none of them could stay awake any longer. The sick man dreamed that he was being tugged about and that someone had managed to get one of his shoes off. In the morning when he awoke the man was healed, but the shoe actually was gone and has not been found to this day.

The question still stands: What saint stole the shoe? Obviously, Swithin and his rival saint, jealous and petulant, were pulling and hauling for possession of the sick man during the night, but no one knows which one had hold of his feet.

PRE-REGISTRATION: July 28, Aug.
Page Three

Wednesday, July 16
Thursday, July 17 happy birthday Diane McClain
FLORIDA formally ceded by Spain to the United States 1821, Andrew Jackson, becoming its first American governor.
Friday, July 18
Federico Fellini's 8 1/2 Free in the Auditorium
Saturday, July 19 Seminar VICTIMLESS CRIMES: PUBLIC COSTS AND PRIVATE STANDARDS Auditorium Free 9:30 AM

Sunday, July 20
Monday, July 21
BELGIAN INDEPENDENCE DAY 1831
Tuesday, July 22
HAPPY BIRTHDAY, Helen Sheffield, Personnel