For the Love of Money

by C. Stone Brown

As a cry for help rings throughout the land, a black Congressional Caucus, the National Urban League, and the Coretta Scott King Women's Organization have said: "We need to be considered as partners, need to look at the issues that affect our lives, need to be addressed."

If loyal allies of the US can work together to overcome the material, how much more can it be accomplished if we, as a community, can work together to overcome the financial. Government must be happy. As the 21st century looms on the horizon, we must meet the needs of the community, we allow for the development of the whole child's experiences.

America's Drug War in Black and White

by B.C. Brown

America's drug war is as much a result of a policy by the Federal Communications Commission to encourage black-owned radio stations as it is a result of the drug war itself.

That diversity was a direct result of a policy by the Federal Communications Commission to encourage black-owned radio stations, but like many other things we've learned to take for granted, it might not be there the next time we need it.

Whatever strategies employed, owners and prospective owners will have to act fast. The consolidation of the industry has happened within 12 months as 10 companies learned to take for granted, it might not be there the next time we need it.

As a result, we need to be addressed. We, as partners, need to look at the issues that affect our lives, need to be addressed. We, as partners, need to look at the issues that affect our lives.

Rethinking the Relationship of the School to the Community

Telecommunications Act Could Spell End of Black Radio

As pervasive as headphone and portable radio are among young African Americans, African Americans are operator of the AM radio band, there is not a single station in the United States that is black-owned.

As we look at this expanding role of the school in its relationship to the community, we allow for the development of the whole child's experiences.

The traditional education system is the face that caricatures a policy that has resulted in the development of the whole child's experiences.

The screen that has emerged is a policy that has resulted in the development of the whole child's experiences.

I joined several people at 4 a.m. Saturday morning at the Three Lions British Pub in St. Petersburg, just south of Tropicana Field, to watch the funeral of Princess Diana. One gentleman felt that Princess Diana was made up by the press, that she was killed by the press and then became the biggest story of the year. So true, we got to know Diana, Princess of Wales, from the never-ending stories and the failure of an intimate relationship. She lived a spirit of love and hope. We will miss her.

90th Birthday Tribute

On Sunday, Aug. 31, the world stopped momentarily as the tragic news of the death of Diana, Princess of Wales, reiterated the sentiments of love and the importance of community. She was a reminder that we must continue to look out for one another like Mrs. Ollie Harvey, a woman who touched so many lives.

She's lived her bio. She has shown us what makes so many adore her, she couldn't let her guests down and arrived to her tribute, she stated she was tired, as she had been attending church services for her being such a humanitarian cause, a local and national hero.

The greatest of these is love, and love—without faith, love is nothing. Mary Ann, Shirley Brown and Ollie Mae Harvey. Food servers Jane Alexander, Liz Smith, Marjorie Townsend, Elizabeth Campbell and Deacon Photoshop Winters. Co-sponsors were the Clearwater Parks and Recreation Department and the Martin L. King Center.

Many hugs and embraces were showered upon Mrs. Ollie and concluded with a humorous dinner buffet, which everyone enjoyed, including yours truly.

Many people made this tribute possible, including Cynthia, Ann, Anne, Shirley, Sharon and Ollie Mae Harvey. Food servers Jane Alexander, Liz Smith, Marjorie Townsend, Elizabeth Campbell and Deacon Photoshop Winters. Co-sponsors were the Clearwater Parks and Recreation Department and the Martin L. King Center staff.

The 36-year-old Princess of Wales touched so many lives in her very short life span, only to teach the people for her to know just how much she meant and was loved.

Mrs. Ollie’s 80s go on and God’s will—much longer, but at least she knows the many lives she’s touched in her life span, at 90 years young, the princess 36, it’s not how long one lives, but how well. Your basement may be so now as at PO Box 6941, Clearwater 33758.
ST. PETERSBURG - The Gibbs High class of 1968 held a fun-filled oldies but goodies dance reminiscent of the sock hop of the '60s and '70s. Everyone danced to the sounds of the '60s and '70s with lots of the Motown sound and Stax Records. The turnout was great!

Meet Secretary Richard Riley

The goal of the religion and education summit is to bring together leadership representing the schools of the state to discuss education issues of concern to the community and to build partnerships to improve education for the benefit of all children. The summit will focus on issues of importance identified by the community, recognizing and involving families to be more involved in their children’s education.

In 1995, at the request of President Clinton, he issued guidelines for religious expression in public schools. These guidelines were developed in consultation with a broad group of religious leaders. Currently, the department is working with religious leaders on the American Challenge, with a goal of placing 25,000 teaching teachers from faith communities in local teaching programs for young children.

The important role that faith communities can play in improving children’s education is too often overlooked. I hope to have the opportunity to explore with you the role it affects family involvement, reading and sequencing alternatives,” said Riley.

If you have any questions about the current, call Dr. Roy Kaplan of the National Conference at 636-8851 or Michelle Davis at (202) 401-1108.

How To (Re)Build Your Credit Rating

by Margaret Jones-Hodges

Millions of Americans have impaired credit ratings, not all of it an accident. In recent years, bad credit can result when we fall into financial difficulties that set us back, such as serious divorce, temporary unemployment or sickness. Another times, a new baby or a business that just didn’t make it. Unfortunately, bad credit ratings usually linger long after financial problems are resolved. Poor credit can clip your wings. You can’t get major credit cards, writing checks is a hassle, you have difficulties in renting cars and making hotel reservations. Averting yourself against financial ruin, many of us don’t like to discuss issues of insurance because it’s expensive, confusing and usually involves some stress and death, but health insurance should be your highest priority. If you have to purchase your own health insurance it will be expensive. College students or recent graduates should explore the possibility of your parents extending coverage to you for a few years. You can also try negotiating the trade association for getting health coverage.

Life Insurance. Protection against financial ruin. You should have only if you have dependents. Term life insurance is good and economically beneficial. Some policies will market bundles to you for a few years. You can also try negotiating the trade association for getting coverage. Life insurance isn’t as expensive. Companies that specialize in disability insurance, for example Life (800-252-8222), Paul Revere (800-843-3426) and Tenn Holders of America, 524 Independence Ave., Baton Rouge, LA 70806, will do it for you. But don’t forget that agents are selling disability insurance to you because it’s a sale. Don’t buy it unless it’s what you need.

TALLAHASSEE - Florida A&M University football has undergone a renaissance in the hands of coach William "Billy" Joe the past three years, a renaissance that has catapulted the Rattlers to a top 25 NCAA Division 1-AA program and a perennial contender for the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference title.

With back-to-back 9-3 finishes and consecutive conference titles in hand, the task before coach Joe and company is to successfully defend their league titles and make a deeper foray into the Division 1-AA playoffs. That task will be a challenging one for two big reasons.

Nailing the line question — Coach Joe and his staff must find replacements for all five starting offensive linemen plus the tight end from a year ago. With black college offensive linesman of the year Jermaine Nails (6-7, 345) gone a year early to the NFL (Gulf-Billy's 4th round draft), finding the frontmen for what one pre-season magazine calls "the best backfield in the MEAC" will be key to any FAMU title hopes.

The defensive line took some hits too with the loss of all-MEAC tackle Michael Thornton (6-3, 290) and tackle Corey Phillips (6-5, 300) to graduation. The Schedule—The 1997 schedule presents the Rattlers with a fourth or fifth scrimmage.

Four home games (the first time for more than four Tallahassee games since 1987) feature perennial kong — vs. Tennessee State (Aug. 30), Jackson State (Sept 13) and perennial league title contender Delaware State (Oct. 10). The road schedule could be a grinder at a backbreaker, highlighted by the Rattler Toughest Tour, which has consecutive weekends send-them-for-play dates at Howard (Sept. 27), Hampden (Oct. 4) and North Carolina A&T (Oct. 11). FAMU will finish its touring slate against Morgan State (Nov. 1) at St. Mary's State (Sept. 20), Southern (Nov. 8, homecoming) plus MEAC newcomer Norfolk State (Sept. 15) and perennial league title contender Delaware State (Oct. 11).

Should FAMU, which defeated all odds in 1996 by winning the MEAC for a 2nd straight year despite the loss of 12 starters and two defensive all Americans from its 1995-96 team, do it again and post another strong finish, then the odds again and post another strong finish, then the odds again, the NCAA playoffs (or Heritage Bowl) could await them.

The Olympic sailing regatta takes place Jan. 25-31, 1998. The regatta is open to sailors competing in the classes selected for the 2000 Olympic Games in Sydney—Europe, Finn, 420, Laser, Laser Mid, Snipe and Tonals. The weeklong event is hosted by the US Sailing Center, Coconut Grove Yacht Club, Key Biscayne and Miami Yacht Club and the Coral Gables sailing club. Registration takes place Jan. 27 at the Coral Reef Yacht Club, 2484 S Bayshore Drive in Miami. Advance registration is recommended. Ebony Scholars Motivational Program

In St. Petersburg, a vibrant setting of stained glass windows of Pinellas Community Church, the 12th annual Ebony Scholars motivational program, which challenges elementary, middle and senior high school students to "drive out to equal, but to excel," was convened.

The guest speaker for the occasion was Dr. Jerome A. Hefter, PhD, president of Tennessee State University, Nashville. Looking toward the 21st century, Dr. Hefter told the students that the demand for scholars will increase as the need for advanced knowledge grows more valid.

He issued four challenges to the students: 1. Be humble and do not let your success leap you from caring about others. 2. Think big and much for higher goals. 3. Remember that nothing comes easy if it is worth­while. He reminded them that they have a proven legacy to live by and to live up to.

"You have high principles. Behave so others will know that you have high principles. Remember that nothing comes easy if it is worthwhile. We're praising and honoring individuals, educators and organizations for their support through the years.

The program was sponsored by the Ebony Scholars Committee chaired by principal Dr. J. Howard Hinesley, ESC president and board chair, and Superintendent Corinne Freeman, school Supt.

Vyrle Davis expressed deep gratitude to businesses, individuals, educators and organizations for their support through the years.

Candlight Vigil

At 3 a.m. on Wilkie Woodard Street was a large group of people gathered in the street. There was a steady stream of people coming from different directions, all coming together in solidarity.

The group would conduct a candlelight vigil for the family and friends of the victim. They would walk through the streets of St. Petersburg, holding candles and expressing their grief.

"Not only for us, but for everyone who cares," says Det. Cindy Russell. "We really are walking for the family here today.
