BLACK PEOPLE MUST SELL AS WELL AS BUY OR ELSE REMAIN A “BEGGAR RACE”

From The Football Field To The Funeral Field

Dwayne Matt

Miss Black Florida USA Tours State

ST. PETERSBURG - Dwayne Matt remembers his high school coach, then Bob Stevens, yelling "Hey No. 81, I want the quarter-back on the ground!" His parents can still remember the thumps and thuds when Defensive End Dwayne Matt tackled, sacked or harassed quarterbacks. As they entered the prep-room, he focused on the gleaming instruments on a table, wondering what an embalming procedure might entail.

Two weeks later, his grandfather died. For the first time, Dwayne observed and experienced some feelings of loss. During the funeral procession, riding in the limousine, he remembered his grandfather.

Dwayne Matt is careful to credit to the many people who have helped him along the way. Specifically, there is Victoria Lawson who said the very first newspaper she ever worked for was for The Weekly Challenger. She gave credit to the many students pursuing a career in journalism. She has contributed over $4,000 in scholarships to students in the Ebony Scholars Program with emphasis on students pursuing a career in journalism or English.

Mayor David Fischer congratulated Cleveland Johnson on his 30th Anniversary and service in the community. "As local and dedicated as they are loyal and dedicated in their devotion to maintain a high standard of excellence in journalism. The newspaper is one of the largest and finest growing weekly black community newspapers in the state," he said.

Activities For The Past 30 Years

"My child is making A's and B's in school. What do you mean he's not ready for college?"

"Well, he hasn't taken..."

Good grades and a high school diploma aren't all it takes to be successful in college. A student must carefully choose what courses to take during the early part of high school.

Find out ways your child can get the most out of school during a community event.

The “Fast Track” To Trouble For The American People

By Hugh B. Price

Have you noticed that the “fast track” for a young African-American athlete to “make it” in the sport of tennis has changed? It used to be that the path to the top of the game for African Americans had to be paved with sweat, toil and dogged determination.

Times were different then. The revolution in the sport was not so much a thing of individualism, but rather the creation of a group of young black women who were determined to get into the limelight.

The “fast track” was easier now. It’s easier for the young, talented African-American athlete to get into the sport and to stay there.

However, there are still some things that the African-American athlete needs to do to get into the sport. The “fast track” is not just a matter of getting into the sport and staying there.

The African-American athlete needs to have the right mental attitude and the right physical skills to stay in the sport.

Thank you for your attention.

New Mt. Olive P.B. Church 90th Anniversary

Mt. Olive P.B. Church was organized in 1907 by the late Elder Ford and bishops J. E. Whiteside, James and Lewis. Since the beginning of the Christain church, its history has been intensely interesting, for it is the object of a child's, if its aged and imploring. The continued growth of the church denotes the existence of our faith in God. It is regarded as a heritage that should be passed on to our
