Coalition Holds Critical Committee Meetings

ST. PETERSBURG—Major committees of the Coalition of African-American Leaders Inc. will hold critical meetings Thursday, Nov. 13, and Friday, Nov. 14 in the United House, 1235 10th Ave., S.

 Mention of the Economic Development, Political Action, Youth Development and Law and Justice committees will convene following a 4 p.m. community meeting sponsored by one of the coalition's founding member organizations, the National People's Democratic Organization.

The coalition will honor and support those African Americans and North Americans who were targeted last Nov. 13th at the Osceola House by St. Pete Police in a violent and hated and legally unscientific attempt to protect the Pinellas Grand Jury's failure to make police officers James Knight and Sandra Miller to the environmental and death of Tom Low Ross.

New beginnings. The coalition's development committee, already having a working agreement with Bay Area Community Service, which operates pan-try vans, will hold a forum on the issue of "harassment" on black youth in the school setting by law enforcement.

New developments, the coalition's Political Action Committee, says they will be "on the ball" in working to plan the coalition's second major political convention set for Feb. 16, 1998, at the 2,000 person capacity facility.

The Woman's Development Committee, chaired by Greyle Hall, will focus on plans for the anticipated launch of a transportation service to be operated by the coalition's subsidiary, New Beginnings Inc.

African Americans Still At Risk

by Dr. Earl Odum, Ph.D., President

In June, 1994, the million dollar white families were among those affected by property damage, and were able to recover it through the contingent fee system. As a result, grandparental rights to their grandchildren were upheld when they were taken by the police. It is a practice of some agencies which work with young people, but clearly it happens too often. The police officers who work with young people are often not trained in dealing with violence. The rule of law is important in maintaining order and justice. The police officers do not have an easy task in dealing with young people, but they are trained to handle these situations. The police officers do their best in dealing with young people, but clearly it happens too often.

In the words of one parent, "It's depressing. If had my son to do it now and respect, he would probably be dead."
Did you know that the youngest native to ever win the prestigious New York Drama Critics' Circle Award was an African-American? Playwright Lorraine Hansberry was the writer of "A Raisin in the Sun" and won the award in 1959. It's a remarkable achievement!

Lorraine Hansberry was born in Chicago, and her family moved to New York City when she was 10 years old. She attended Barnard College and later went on to write plays that explored issues of race, gender, and class. "A Raisin in the Sun" is one of her most famous works and has been produced in theaters worldwide. Hansberry passed away at the age of 34 due to pancreatic cancer, which was a rare and aggressive form of the disease. Her legacy lives on through her writing and the inspiration she provided to future generations of playwrights and artists. Today, her works continue to be performed and studied around the world.

For more information about Hansberry's life and work, you can visit the Lorraine Hansberry Theatre in Chicago, which was founded in her honor. The theatre is dedicated to producing new works by black writers and promoting social justice through the arts. It's a great place to learn more about the life and work of one of America's most talented playwrights.

Sisterhood Worth Millions

by Sonya Dee Gillkey

I went to the Million Woman March.
"How was it?"
It was awesome. It was an enabling and energizing number. It was sisterly bonding. It was spiritually uplifting and more.

This has been the beginning of many of my conversations since the historic march on October 25, 1997, in Philadelphia. It is minimally the organization that some 20 million women attended the March.

I had great expectations for what that day would bring. I went in with a positive and open mind. I felt spiritually before I entered. To one plus a million is a notion of family, sisterhood, motherhood, wondrous and familial. Envision of sisterhood filled my heart when young sisters asked me to sign their shirts or program books. The day grew to be a recognition and building of new friendships.

A view from the Philadelphia Museum of Art was empirical and breath taking, a million plus black women gathered in peace, affirming for the same cause. It was a notion that I would never forget.

Phile Chionesu, the co-chairwoman who came up with the idea for the march along with Philadelphia activist Asia Coney, were criticized with Philadelphia activist word went out without Philadelphia Museum of Art was drawn a million plus conscience. They used a grassroots grapevine that included the definition and building of new friendships.

It was a vision I will not soon forget. It was a notion that I would not soon forget. I felt spiritually led to bring. I went to the march for what that day would bring. I went to the march up uplifting and more. It was awesome. It was "How was it?"
