2019 Men and Women of Distinction Awards

BY RAVEN JOY SHONEL

ST. PETERSBURG - The Gathering of Women, Inc. 2019 Men and Women of Distinction Awards Ceremony kicked off an amazing afternoon Sunday, April 28, at the St. Petersburg Country Club, located at 2000 Country Club Way. A weekend filled with family and friends who came out to support the achievements of this year's honorees.

The Distinction Awards are given to honor individuals who have tirelessly given, their time, talent, and expertise to benefit the community. These honorees represent a broad range of attributes that include faith, culture, public service and business.

Each year, candidates for the Distinction Awards undergo a strict review process that starts in the previous year. To nominate a fellow and to recognize an individual, a selection committee organizes a meeting within the context of community involvement, leadership, commitment, a concern for humanity and having an enduring and meaningful impact.

Amanda Bowdy, the lead theater instructor for the fine arts program at John Hopkins Middle School, took over the mistress of ceremonies duties while Rev. L. Don Middleton, pastor of New Pleasant Grove Baptist Church, gave the keynote address.

South St. Pete Relay For Life Breaks Records

BY RAVEN JOY SHONEL

ST. PETERSBURG — Even though it was a Friday night, Mt. Zion Progressive Missionary Baptist Church’s pews were overflowing with fans more about the Bible in a cinematic fashion. Writer and director Jimmy Jenkins was in town to screen the Florida premiere of his film “Sinners Wanted.”

While in Houston for a conference last year, Senior Pastor Rev. Louis Murphy Sr. and Youth Pastor Thomas Smith met the aspiring young filmmaker. Jenkins talked about a religious film he wanted to make that would enter the younger generation to go church.

“I’m always out for being an encouragement and love and behold he did do it,” Rev. Murphy said. And Jenkins did say “Sinners Wanted” stars Lamman Rucker of “Greenleaf” fame, veteran actor Clifton Powell and even social commentator Roland Martin made cameos appearance.

Jenkins warned the congregation before the movie started that it was about a prostitute.

“Now listen, don’t get mad at me. I take it right out the Bible,” he said, encouraging everyone to go to church. “You always understand that 70 percent of my generation don’t go to church.”

Jenkins explained that the younger generation is now watching social media or Netflix to watch the time and understand what the Bible is really teaching. He feels that he stepped into this film to bring that message to that generation, they want to learn and understand the Word of God.

He said he feels God put him on this earth to take Bible stories and transform them into present-day relatable example of God’s Word.

The independent 28-year-old filmmaker quit a good paying job working at Tyler Perry Studios to break out on his own. His father told him he wasn’t going to cover his bills, but he had a message he wanted to touch the younger generation.

“Every day that you take tonight will make a difference,” she said. “And not only funds to research, it needs hope, given that all the reasons to believe that one day we won’t need to walk, and help support survivors who are as strong and valiant in their fight.”

The American Cancer Society reports that about 19,000 cancer cases in black men and 10,240 cases in black women are expected to be newly diagnosed in 2023. Prostate cancer is the most common incidence rate while breast cancer is the most common among black women. About 36,400 black men and women are expected to die from cancer in 2019. More than 2.3 million African Americans with a history of cancer were alive on January 1, 2023, many of whom were diagnosed years earlier.

Collectively, blacks have the highest death rate and shortest survival among any race/ethnic group in the U.S. for most cancers. Black men also have the highest cancer incidence rate. The cancer incidence rates of all racial groups are complex and reflect social and economic disparities and cultural differences that affect cancer risk as well as the differences in access to high-quality care.
Praise the Lord. There is a teaching that it was only the Alba- hamite covenant that was finished on the cross and that Christ has gone and suffered for all our sins under the hands of Satan in the underworld and he returns in hell. This idea is false. We have never said that and we reject it without redemption. It is from his suffering in hell that we were brought back into the arms of the Father.

There is a teaching that we can speak the word by faith over and over and we will receive all that we ask for because we have the Holy Spirit and the promises. The only thing that stands in our way of our own faith is that it is God's will to give us children whatever we ask.

There is a teaching that we can ask for the name of Jesus because this will bring us to God. We can go beyond even the apostles in our miracles. We are sons. That we can go beyond the apostles is typified by the love of the wife for the husband.

The love of Christ in the Church is unselfish love; he died for us while we were still sinners. It is a love that is patient, longsuffering, giving her attention to our need when there was no selfish love in the Church's love for Christ!

It should be the same recognizing in our heartheadship our coverage, our love. We have no substance of submission and the Corinthians.

The value of faithfulness having only eyes for him as he has only eyes for her.

This was done so that she would be seen as a pure hearted woman. But there are some who are telling us something that goes against the word meanings.

Who do we want? Someone with a jealous God who does not want them to think of things that would tend to make it in the world, that we have to be careful and not encourage to play sports. We are trying to save her — although he may not come.

She is also a member of the NCCAA Division I Women’s Swimming and Diving Championships and honored Stanford University with the NCAA team championship in women’s swimming and diving in 2017 and 2018.

Being conscious of the messages we give to girls is essential. What history will she make if she is encouraged to dream big and to dream differently? Time will tell.
Antidote to racism

Dear Editor:

The first time I was called “nigger” was in 1956 in Fairmont, W.Va., walking home from school. We were in the fourth grade and supposed to be friends, but because Cass tried calling me out of my name, the leadership ended.

The fight was on because I had violated and something rose up in me that was not me. When I got home, my father, Rev. Basha P. Jordan Sr., found out what happened and got mad. He found out where Cassidy lived and went to shake his hand at his house. He sat down with his mom and dad, and my father went to talk to each other. After this spec-

Finellas School News

Pinellas County Schools have scheduled two mini-fairs to help families choose the right school for their children.

Families will have the opportunity to attend two fairs from 5:30 to 7 p.m. May 30 and June 5. The fairs will feature representatives from the school district’s newest K-12 educational fit for their children. The fairs will feature more than 300 of the district’s newest and youngest locations.

On Tuesday, May 23, 5:30 to 7 p.m. at Largo High School, 4150 Ohio Ave., Largo, representatives from grades K-8 will be present.

On Thursday, May 25, 5:30 to 7 p.m. at Dunedin High School, 155 Park Drive N., Dunedin, representatives from grades K-12 will be present.

Representatives from each school will be able to provide information about their school education, extracurricular activities, and programs. District staff will be on hand to help families register for school or guide them on how to apply for special programs. If you have questions or would like additional information, please contact Ellen M. Troskowsk, District Application Program Specialist, at 727-588-6060 or PCSB.org/TRSP.

As a part of the transformation: teach at a school that is more than four walls.

Pinellas School County is looking for teachers who will join us in our vision to lead to transformational changes at schools within the Transformation Zone. In an educator in the Transformation Zone, you will lead teams of educators, district staff, and community leaders to create a learning environment where students are met at their level and are given leadership opportunities. Teachers who will lead this change will work with families to make an impact where you are needed the most.

For more information about teaching opportunities, please contact Anna J. Trapetz, Teaching & Staff Development Specialist, at 727-588-6210 or annajt@PCSB.org.

“Sinners Wanted” is about how an unconventional pastor is ridiculed by his hypocritical church congregation after he rescues and marries a prostitute.

Jenkins wanted to ilustrate how people can be hurt by church, highlighting how many of them have forgotten all about the gospel.

“The majority of the churches today aren’t necessarily good, he said. “So you can’t let your experiences in a bad church mess up your relationship with the Father.”

“He instructed the congregation to go to the book of Revelation and count the churches.

“There were seven,” he pointed out. “Out of that seven, how many were good? Four! So what does that say? Revelations isn’t nothing but a prophecy of the day.

Jenkins grew up in church his entire life. His father, Pastor John K. Jenkins, has one of the most prominent churches in Washington, D.C. There he witnessed firsthand the cruelty within its hallowed walls.

Some of his closest friends stopped believing because of how they were treated.

“We really have to understand God’s Word,” he said. “God tells us there’s going to be bad churches. Beware. Be able to decipher it.”

The congregation fell in love with the wise beyond his years Jenkins and the 90-minute film.

In the fall, he plans to have “Sinners Wanted” in theaters across the country in select cities. He’s asking for both sinners and saints to pack the theaters so more films of this nature will be produced.

“Hollywood does not think there’s a platform for African-American faith-based films, like this,” Jenkins said. “They’re not creating platforms. So I said, ‘I’m going to do them myself.’

Infinite Potential celebrates 10 years

ST. PETERSBURG—Infinite Potential celebrated 10 years of providing quality Voluntary Prekindergarten, or VPK, to the community last month at the Lake Vista Recreation Center with a lively prom to end all kiddie proms.

Former Pinellas County School educator Twanna Monroe started the pre-school to better prepare young African-American scholars to be comfortable in learning, who they are, preparing for the rigors of kindergarten and feeling good about it, she said.

“We started with 12 children for VPK,” recalled Monroe.

Just three months into the startup, Infinite Potential was overflowing with scholars, so much so that Monroe’s husband, a local contractor, had to help the school expand its space.

Teacher Brittanie Walton, who also doubled as the mistress of ceremonies, made sure the parents were having just as much fun as their children. She teamed up with Monroe in the latter half of spring 2010 when she began working in the transitional child classroom. She’s now a VPK teacher.

The positive synergy between the two educators enables them to shape their preschool program to fit the needs of children from the community.

“I love children, and I love the process of them learning,” said Walton. “I wasn’t just looking for a job some nine years ago, she was looking to find a ‘pre-school home’ where educating the whole is a priority.

Walton and Monroe’s love for their profession was evident as they danced just as much as the scholar scholars. VPK parents were welcome in as if they were family members.

Infinite Potential is located at 2250 Bay Hanna Drive in St. Petersburg.

If you’re looking for a top-notch pre-school, call Monroe at 727-434-0828.

Socioeconomic dispari- ties result in unequal access to opportunities and resources, such as wealth, income, education, housing, healthy food and overall standard of living. Structural racism—the combi- nation of institutions, cul- ture, history, ideology and practices that gener- ates and perpetuates inequality among racial and ethnic groups—also contributes to disparate health outcomes.

Moreover, many men and women fear a dispro-portionately high burden of other diseases, which influ- ences cancer survival. In 2010, the death rate in the U.S. was higher for blacks than whites for heart disease, stroke, influenza and pneumonia, diabetes, de- pression, HIV/AIDS, kidney disease and homicide. Consequently, life expectancy is lower for blacks than whites among both men (71.5 versus 75.1 years) and women (77 versus 81.0 years).

Afterward he appeared and spoke to them as they were walking; and they were amazed and delighted at seeing him. He said to them, ‘These are my words: Father, the kingdom of heaven has come near; repent and believe in the gospel.’ And news about him spread quickly throughout Judea. He went about all the towns preaching his message, and he taught the people. Jesus reaffirms to His disciples that He was up. Pastor crowds that had declared He was dead even after two accounts, we should look at harsher tone with them as they thought Jesus was still brating his resurrection but they believed not them which testified to him. Pastor teaches that God, we should be willing to go wherever God has cre- alme, with our spirit, soul, and body that is alive. He is the image of the invisible God, the firstborn of all creation. For in him all things were created, things visible and invisible, whether thrones or dominions or rulers or powers—all things were created through him and for him. He is before all things, and in him all things hold together. 'For it pleased the Father that in him all the fullness should dwell, and through him to reconcile to himself all things, whether on earth or in heaven.' Jesus says go into ‘all’ the world so what are we doing in good news of Jesus Christ. We should be proclaiming the word and demonstrating the Love of Christ. We need to act like His spirit is still living. From verse 15-18 . . . Pastor shows that in the right way of building rapport and est. Jesus’ early life shows us how to build rapport and est.
