Subject: Cooperman-Bogue First Quarter Award Winner

Thank you for your willingness to serve on the 1998 Cooperman-Bogue Awards Selection Committee. I am pleased that we have had an increase over previous years in the initial response to our 1998 awards program. Even though some are ineligible because they are in management positions, it shows that creating a more eye-catching brochure and targeting additional groups in our mailing announcement netted favorable results.

A meeting to select the first quarter winner has been set for Tuesday, May 5th, 4:00 p.m., at JWB, in the fourth floor conference room. The nominations and a copy of the brochure with eligibility requirements are enclosed. Please review the nominations and rank order them, with 1 being the highest, 2 second highest and so on. Have your rankings prepared for the meeting. In reviewing the nominations, if there are any you feel are ineligible or unacceptable according to the criteria, eliminate them from the rank order and be prepared to give your reason. When the committee meets, we will compare rank orders and select a winner. Eligible nominations will be returned to the pool for subsequent quarterly winners.

If you cannot make the May 5th meeting, please call me with your rank order, so that it will be tallied with the rest. Thanks for your help.

Cooperman-Bogue Awards Donation

Since 1994, the Juvenile Welfare Board has formally recognized outstanding human service providers through the Cooperman-Bogue Awards. This recognition process is both formal and informal. Formal recognition occurs at an awards dinner. Informal recognition occurs at the honorees' workplace on a quarterly basis.

Part of the awards program involves the use of sponsorships to provide cash awards and gifts for honorees. For the fifth year, Juvenile Welfare Board member Tom Moriarty facilitated such a sponsorship with his employer, IDEX Mutual Funds and the Western Reserve Life Division of AEGON USA. Their $2,500 donation will be used for the quarterly cash awards of $250.00 each, along with gift certificates and gift baskets; and the annual winner cash award of $1,000.00.

A brochure about the 1998 Cooperman-Bogue Awards is attached.
